

MODULE 3

The 3 card reading
VIDEO SUMMARY

Video 5:

The 3 card reading

- ▶ First card is the most important card because it anchors the entire subject for the reading
- ▶ Anchor card is like an iceberg - you're seeing the top of the iceberg but it has a vast amount of information underneath
- ▶ All the treasure is underneath the surface
- ▶ You get enough information in the first card to tell you what's under the water
- ▶ 8 different versions of the first card depending on what you decide the first position is going to mean using pre-selected card #38 To Be Fair
  - ◇ The Past - can represent balance, alignment, fairness, disputes settled in your favor. Something you're already coming from, something that's already occurred, already known about, even reflect something you may not 100 percent know about but should give you a foundation for where you're heading next with your next card
  - ◇ Current Situation - you're looking at the now so it's reflective of where you are now. What is fairness now? What is your situation now? Are you striving for fairness? Are you in balance? Looking for balance? It's going to describe your now. View cards message as being that you're in the process of creating balance.
  - ◇ Self - means it's about 'me' being balanced, being a negotiator, being in-between something or someone because it's about balance. In some kind of relationship. Fairness = might be about me, bringing balance to myself, expressing fairness to others or being in-between because there's the 2 balancing scales on the card.
  - ◇ What have I missed? - would indicate having missed the balance, missed the justice of things, and an opportunity to bring something into balance
  - ◇ What is in motion for me right now? - looking at flowing energy: in/out. Sense of balance and fairness being in motion.

- ◇ What is the nature of this story? - bringing things into balance, bringing justice to the table, bringing something to a conclusion. Theme is balance, justice and fairness.
- ◇ What am I resisting? - says resisting fairness. I want to be right more than I want to be fair.
- ◇ What is the nature of an obstacle? - feeling the nature of the obstacle isn't fair.

▶ Subtle shift in what the card means when you change the nature of the position of the first card

▶ When you change the quality of the question, the motive of the question, everything else changes. The intention changes.

▶ 8 step process of how to do a reading

- ◇ Determine a subject
- ◇ Determine your state of mind
- ◇ Get neutral
- ◇ Check your motive and bias from a neutral position
- ◇ Set the intention for the reading
- ◇ What do you need to know, what's your theme?
- ◇ Determine structure of question and position of the cards
- ◇ Shuffle and take the first card

▶ 8 steps are followed before you even touch the cards

Brief OVERVIEW

▶ This video covered the importance of the anchor card and how there are different versions of reading the anchor card according to the subject you're starting with. There are subtle differences according to the story-in-motion. The video also covered the steps to prepare for a reading before you even touch the cards.